The Fall harvest season is now in full swing and Halloween is quickly approaching. Several houses have been decorated in keeping with the time of year and the special season. This "Happy Fella", in a fall harvest setting in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bussey's home at the corner of South Kingshighway and Gladys Street, has attracted much attention from passing motorists.

Richardson declines to pass judgment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson said today it is up to the American people, not him, to judge the Watergate events that have led to congressional demands for the impeachment of President Nixon.

House inquiry begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives today began preliminary inquiry into whether President Nixon should be impeached.

The first of several resolutions calling for impeachment was introduced at 12:12 p.m. by Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif.

House Speaker Carl Albert referred those and other related resolutions to the House Judiciary Committee, whose chairman announced he would begin a preliminary investigation.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., said "events of the past few days leave us little choice at this time but to move ahead with preparation for impeachment proceedings."

He referred to Nixon's firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Rodino said the committee's probe is in "the preliminary stage to inquire whether or not there is evidence to establish an impeachable offense."

Albert announced even before the House convened he resigned rather than fire Archibald Cox as Watergate special prosecutor, the former attorney general said he remains a supporter of administration goals and priorities.

He also said Nixon did not break a promise by ordering him to fire Cox for persisting in demands that the President yield White House tape recordings bearing on Watergate.

Richardson also said the applause and cheers of Justice Department employees, and told :

nationally televised news conference he had decided he could best serve the nation as a private citizen because he could not agree with White House decisions that led to the ouster of Cox.

Recounting his record as a member of the administration from its beginning, Richardson did not answer directly when asked if he thinks Nixon should be impeached.

He said he is not the man "who should try to pass judgment" on the events that led to the current government crisis.

He said he was committed to the independence of the Cox investigation, Nixon to the principle of confidentiality for presidential papers and tape recordings.

"The rest is for the American people to judge," he said. Richardson said the fairness of that judgment may determine the future well being of the nation.

Richardson also said he does not consider Nixon to be in violation of court orders to yield the tapes to a federal judge. He said the President should obey a court order, and added that he believes Nixon would do so.

Richardson said he has no doubt that despite the firing of Cox, the Watergate investigation will continue. He said anything done in that case by Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen, the man now in charge of the prosecution, "will be done right."

"Mr. Petersen and his staff and many of the Bulletin Nixon releases tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon agreed today to comply in full with the U.S. Court of Appeals ruling directing him to give the White House tapes to a federal judge.

The announcement came as the House of Representatives began preliminary investigation into whether the President should be impeached.

Nixon's surprise announcement was made to U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica by Charles Alan Wright, lawyer for the President.

Wright told Sirica that the President had hoped that the compromise he announced Friday night would end the constitutional crisis.

"Events over the weekend made it very apparent it did not," Wright said.

The announcement shocked spectators in the packed courtroom who had been waiting to hear how Sirica would respond to the President's proposal to summarize the tapes and have his summary verified by a senior member of the Senate.

Sirica had issued an order on Aug. 29 directing the President to give him nine Watergate-related White House tapes subpoenaed by Cox so that he could examine them in private and determine if the President had a valid claim for withholding them.

The White House had delivered to Sirica on Monday a copy of the President's announcement Friday night as well as a proposed order accepting it.

Cease-fire attempt fails in Mideast war

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fierce tank and artillery clashes exploded along the Suez Canal today and dogfights erupted over the Syrian battleground despite the U.N. ceasefire.

The war raged into its 18th day on both fronts after a only partial overnight pause for the precarious Security Council truce designed to halt the combat in place and open the way to negotiations for a permanent peace.

Egypt called for an emergency Security Council meeting to discuss what it said were Israeli violations of the fragile cease-fire. The council president, Sir Laurence McIntyre of Australia, called a midday session at U.N. headquarters in New York.

Egypt and Israel had accepted the truce appeal — worked out by the United States and the Soviet Union — and both ordered their armies Monday evening to hold their fire unless fired on.

But Syria kept silent on the U.N. call, and only hours after it went into effect there were mutual accusations of ceasefire violations by Egyptians and Israelis along the Suez front.

A correspondent for Egypt's Middle East News Agency said the Israeli and Egyptian forces by today were "locked in the most vicious fighting since the outbreak of the war."

Syria charged the Israelis sent about 60 warplanes in "waves" to bomb civilian targets today north of Damascus and said Israeli planes and cannons hit villages in the eastern foothills of Mt. Hermon.

"Our jet fighters immediately clashed with the enemy in the most violent dogfight and prevented the enemy planes from carrying out their missions, forcing them to drop their bomb loads in barren mountainous areas," a Syrian communique said.

The renewed fighting cast doubt on whether the cease-fire could bring a quick halt to the fourth Middle East war despite the apparent agreement between U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev.

There was no sign of any international supervision in the battle zones. U.N. officials said their truce observers were still in Cairo and Jerusalem, where they were evacuated when the war broke out Oct. 6.

Israel charged the Egyptians with "incessant" cease-fire violations. The Tel Aviv command said its forces in the southern sector of the canal front had orders to continue fighting to counter what it said were persistent Egyptian attacks.

Egypt said the Israelis grabbed new positions during the night, particularly in efforts to expand the Israeli foothold on the west bank of the canal. Israeli planes bombed and strafed Egyptian troops in the area of the Israeli penetration about midway up the canal, Cairo claimed.

City dog pound to be re-opened

The city dog pound, abandoned last summer, will be back in use by the city within a week.

Since the closing of the pound, stray animals captured by the humane officer have been taken to Dr. Sam Hunters, veterinary hospital north of Sikeston. The pound is located east of the old city landfill and Jaycee rodeo grounds.

Acting City Manager Bill Whitlock said today that a waste holding tank will be installed at the pound within the next couple of days.

The tank will hold animal wastes washed out of the pound. Previously, the wastes had no where to go and were deposited on the ground outside the pound, creating unsanitary conditions, Whitlock said.

The reason for returning to the dog pound is to make the animals more convenient to the humane officer and to people who want to adopt a pet.

Whitlock said Dr. Hunter's rates were reasonable, but the city can do the job cheaper. In addition, he said humane officer Bob Beardsley is interested in keeping up the pound.

Whitlock said Beardsley has been successful in placing dogs for adoption and access to the pound will make it easier for people to view the animals.

7 injured in 4 accidents

Seven person were injured in four area accidents Monday, the highway patrol announced today.

Tommy Anthony Freeman, 19, of Kenton, Tenn., received possible internal injuries at 7:30 p.m. four miles east of Steele on Highway 164 when his car ran off the right side of the road, struck a dirt embankment and caught fire.

Freeman was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti.

A one-car accident at 10:30 p.m. on Highway 61 in Perryville resulted in three injuries.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Vernon Gowen, 25, of Perryville ran off the road and struck a culvert.

Gowen received a cut on the left eye. A passenger, Joan Gowen, 21, of Perryville, suffered a bump on the head and a possible broken nose, and another passenger, Shirley Gowen, 15, sustained facial cuts and a possible fractured ankle. All three were taken to Perry County Memorial Hospital in Perryville.

Elenora Porter, 57, of Portageville received minor injuries at 12:45 p.m. on a gravel road three miles east of Portageville when the driver of the car in which she was riding attempted to make a left turn at excessive speed, skidded sideways and overturned in a ditch.

Mrs. Porter was treated at a doctor's office in Portageville.

The driver, Matthew Gentry Hardin, 20, of Portageville, was not injured.

Two persons were injured at 12:20 p.m. in a three-car accident at the intersection of Route Y and Highway 25 at the south edge of Kennett.

The patrol said the accident occurred when a car driven by Edwin Senter Langdon, 82, of Hornersville pulled across Highway 25 into the path of a car driven by Laura Sue Barnes, 51, of Kennett.

The Barnes car struck the Langdon auto in the right rear, causing it to spin around and strike a northbound pickup truck driven by Donald W. Tinkle, 48, of Kennett in the left front.

Langdon and Barnes received minor injuries and were taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

County education level on increase

How many people in Scott County would be unable to qualify for the following job because they lack the normal reading and writing skills?

General officer worker, bright, good at figures. Excellent opportunity for advancement. Write fully, stating education, experience etc. to ...

The vast majority of local people would be quite capable of doing work of this kind because they have had adequate training. They live in an area where the level of education has been on the rise in recent years.

The median amount of schooling being attained locally, according to the latest Department of Commerce statistics, is 10.2 years, as compared with the 1960 median of 8.6 years.

There still remain, however, a sizeable number of local residents who have reached adult age without having acquired sufficient proficiency in reading, writing and arithmetic to hold down the advertised job.

There are 255, the government figures show, who have had no schooling at all or who have gone for less than one year.

Some 1,288 have reached adulthood with a background of only one to four years of schooling and another 2,414 with five to seven years.

Those who cannot read or write at all are called totally illiterate. Others, for whom books, newspapers, welfare forms, license applications and the like are unfathomable mysteries, are designated "functional illiterates."

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, in a recent statement, declared that there are 19 million adult Americans who are totally or functionally illiterate and another 7 million elementary and secondary students who have severe reading problems.

A national effort is being made, under a Right to Read program aided by Federal funds, toward correcting the situation.

In Scott County, an estimated 3,957 men and women fall into the functionally illiterate category.

The proportion is smaller than in some areas of the country but larger than in others.

Cotton trailer overturns

A cotton trailer overturned about 3:15 p.m. Monday just off Highway 61 at the McMullin Gin Co. entrance, dumping part of its load beside the highway. Driver Bill Huff, 274 N. Ranney, said he had just turned off Highway 61 when the right front tire of the trailer blew out and the trailer overturned. The cotton was being hauled from the Hubbard-Huff farm north of Sikeston. It took workmen about an hour to clean up the mess.

BOND'S LOW BLOW ON LICENSE PLATES
When Christopher S. Bond campaigned for Governor of Missouri, his campaign followed traditional themes of "throw the rascals out," "it's time for a change," "outlaw hanky-panky" etc.

It was good, clean, high-sounding stuff that nobody takes too seriously.
With his remarkable ability for being self-righteous, rather than simply right, Bond has over-reacted in an offensive manner on the matter of specialized license plates, which mean a lot to certain people for a variety of reasons, all of them legitimate.

The license plates, usually bearing low numbers, are considered prestigious by their owners, or they are treasured because of some sentimental attachment.
Stan Musial, for example, has had 3000 for his license number in honor of the 3000-hit plateau he attained in the National League.

Some citizens have had the same license plate numbers in their families for generations, and they go to special pains to maintain them. The custom hardly is a threat to law and order.

Bond has taken it upon himself to outlaw such license plates, going to the extreme of having some of them destroyed. He also vetoed a sensible bill passed by the legislature, that would have permitted people to buy personalized license plates if they wanted to pay a premium cost of $12.

By behaving in an impetuous, ill-considered, juvenile manner on an issue that it totally harmless and even meritorious in some instances, Bond has affronted a great many people who believed in him.

His overkill on low-numbered license plates is too much like a temper tantrum to be worthy of the Governor of Missouri.

COMMON SENSE

"SOCIETY IN EVERY STATE is a blessing; but government, even in its best state, is but a necessary evil; in its worst state an intolerable one, for when we suffer or are exposed to the same miseries by a government, which we might expect in a country without government, our calamity is heightened by reflecting that we furnish the means by which we suffer ... Were the impulses of conscience clear, uniform, and irresistibly obeyed, man would need no other lawgiver: but that not being the case, he finds it necessary to surrender up part of his property to furnish means for the protection of the rest; and this he is induced to do by the same prudence which in every other case advises him out of two evils to choose the least.

NEW YORK (AP) - Memory is a marriage.

It weds man to his past, and there can be no divorce in that union. It is indissoluble.

Memory is the strongest link to life man has, and the most lasting. Only death, if anything, can dissolve it, and we are not even certain of that, for we know little about death.

Yet memory isn't a bondage or an uneasy servitude, but the most durable of our pleasures and the one that brings us the most solace across the years.

You have a pretty extensive chain of memory links yourself if you can look back and remember when -

You could buy a Hohner harmonica for a dime or, later, 25 cents, and become the musical genius of your neighborhood.

When you went to a doctor and told him you were feeling "poorly," like as not he'd say, "You ought to eat more - it'd do you good to fatten up." Fat people were thought then to have more resistance to disease than thin people.

Girls thought nothing of being engaged to a man six months or more to be certain he was the one they wanted to marry.

If a young society lady broke her engagement, she usually went on a tour of Europe to get over her disappointment. If she was poor, she just visited a relative for a while.

People expected as much benefit from a 50-cent bottle of Indian herbal tonic as they do from $25 worth of vitamin pills today.
Adolescence was that miserable period when you were too old to sit in the front rows at the movie any longer and too shy to ask a girl to sit with you in the back row, where the spooning couples sat.

GOOFY PRIZE FIGHTER SPIRO THANKS DICK FOR THE PUNCH

Listening to Spiro Agnew Monday night, I remembered a story Nelson Algren likes to tell about a goofy prizefighter. This fighter almost had his head torn off by Archie Moore. He was hit so hard he was out for half an hour.

When he regained consciousness, he went to Moore's dressing room and asked for an autograph.

That's the way Spiro sounded when he talked about President Nixon.

If you swallowed what he said - and many of the Agnew faithful ate it up - there can be only one conclusion as to what happened to him.

HE WAS FRAMED.

So the local question to ask is, who framed him?

It takes somebody big to frame a Vice President of the United States.

Not some obscure district attorney in Maryland. And not some lower-level eager beavers in the Justice Department, either.

They might get it started, but to carry it through requires the approval of somebody big.

There's only one person in Washington that big - the President himself. It was his justice department that finally put Spiro in a corner.

Yet, Spiro had hardly finished saying what a bum deal he got when he began gushing about what a fine fellow President Nixon is.

Gee, Archie, you got a great punch. My eyes are still crossed.

Then there was the business of leaks to the media about Agnew's case.

There are only three possible sources for these leaks:

First, Agnew's lawyers or staff.

Second, Mr. Nixon's Justice Department.

Third, Mr. Nixon's legendary White House staff.

I think we can assume that Agnew's people didn't leak anything.

So that leaves only Mr. Nixon's Justice Department or Mr. Nixon's legendary White House staff.

It shouldn't have been hard for Spiro to figure that out.

Yet, there he was on TV, complaining about leaks but quickly telling us what a fine leader we have in Mr. Nixon. Say, Archie, would you autograph my right jaw right where you punched it?

You would think Spiro would have expressed even the slightest disappointment in the way Mr. Nixon reacted to his alleged frameup.

This was not some $10 traffic rap, which can be enough to make some people jump up and down in court.

the status of a presidential prospect to be an ink blot on history's pages.

And what did President Nixon do while these terrible injustices were being stacked against him?

Did he mobilize the FBI to find out who is framing his loyal Spiro? Did he unleash a team of ex-CIA men to determine if the framers go to a shrink? Did he bug one phone or have somebody peek through even one keyhole?

No. He coolly accepted Spiro's resignation. And Spiro went on TV and said Nixon is a joy.

Archie, the greatest thrill of my career is having my nose broke by you.

And consider the coolness of Spiro himself.

Most people, if trapped by a devilish plot to destroy their names, careers, finances, and maybe to put them in the pokey, would be running in little circles and making squeaking sounds.

Though ones like Spiro the spunky, Spiro the battler, Spiro the counter-puncher, might be expected to fight to the finish.

Instead, he meekly resigns his office, goes into court, in effect pleads guilty, pays a $10,000 fine and accepts probation.

But he came up with the most original explanation I've ever heard for copping a plea.

He said he did it because he is patriotic.

He didn't want the country developing a nervous twitch over his problems.

Well, if that's true, President Nixon ought to find some kind of medal for such patriotism.

And the way Spiro talked

Monday night he'd probably show up at the White House and beam while President Nixon pinned it on his tail.

Archie, would you give me just one more punch - for old time's sake?

Missourian

Leland Hazard, lawyer, author, Pittsburgh, Pa.: "What brings forth the power of the human hand in one century differs from what may bring it forth in another. In the twelfth century men sought heaven by carrying stones for the great cathedrals. In the seventeenth, men listened to their Puritan preachers and sought salvation in close application to trade and business. In the twentieth, men tend to gather in councils to decide the conditions on which they will work"

TERRORIST POLICY IS A REAL POSER

"A lot of Americans, from the White House down, are infected with delusions of John Wayne-type machismo that leads to simplistic slogans like, 'The first rule is that you never reward terrorists,'" writes columnist Carl T. Rowan.

This is movie tough-guy nonsense, he says, which simply cannot be applied to every airplane hijacking, to every kidnapping, to every seizure of a U. S. diplomat.

Rowan's is one of the few voices to suggest that the demand made by the killers of two American diplomats and one Belgian in Khartoum for the release of Sirhan B. Sirhan was not unthinkable, if Sirhan's release could have saved the lives of the diplomats.

Now there is no argument

On some Fords, the floor of the truck is the same piece of thin sheet metal as the top of the gas tank - an arrangement criticized by American Motors as early as 1964. But it wasn't until court cases began to accumulate that Ford began abandoning this hazardous design.

Meanwhile, General Motors, incredibly, is moving its gas tanks even further back, thus increasing the danger of fiery, rear-end collisions.

Unlike the style-conscious nabobs of Detroit, the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing has tough rules to block the unnecessary immolation of drivers. To get on a NASCAR track, an auto must have a "firewall of steel not less than 20 gauge thickness," a gas tank "as far forward as possible in the trunk compartment," safety valves and other anti-fire devices.

Ironically, the reason the Detroit automakers give for their interest in racing is to gain more safety research. Yet they refuse to adopt the NASCAR gas system standards. This failure has led to such horror stories as these:

A mother, father and four children from Kentucky were rear-ended as they were driving home from a vacation. The car became a fireball as gas burst out of the ruptured gas tank. A witness tried to pull the screaming family from the car, but the flames forced him back. All six were cremated alive. Our photos of the tragedy show they might have survived if the gas tank had been located over the rear axle.

"FLAMETHROWER"

The car of an 18-year-old New York girl and her parents was hit in the rear at a toll booth. The filler tube popped from the tank, creating a flamethrower effect that incinerated the parents. The burning girl was pulled alive through the front window by a toll booth guard.

"Bloch, the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, and the Center for Auto Safety have all taken their research on fuel systems to the Transportation Department. They have received the legislative support of Rep. John Moss, D-Calif. But so far, the Department has shrugged off the issue except to promise 'ultimately' to produce a standard.

In Detroit, spokesmen for the Big Three automakers vigorously defended the safety of their cars.

General Motors claimed no matter where a tank is located, fires cannot be completely avoided. "It has not been established," insisted GM, "that moving the tank will significantly improve the crashworthiness of the fuel system."

CLASH OF FIGURES

At Ford, a spokesman said car fires are extremely rare, with the fatality figures more like 600 to 700 than the Transportation Department's 2,000 to 3,500 estimate. The Ford man said there has never been "any demonstrated value to a firewall."

Chrysler claimed there isn't enough data available on the tanks for a final decision. By shifting the tank forward, said the spokesman, the danger might increase from frontal crashes, side accidents and roll-overs.

FOOTNOTE: Despite these protestations, Toyota tests have demonstrated the safety of tanks over the rear axle. In Mercedes-Benz new sedans, the tanks have also been moved over the rear axle. Studebaker Avantis have had firewalls and rear axle tanks since 1962. Furthermore, the new experimental safety vehicles being developed with federal funds have the tanks over the rear axle, metal firewalls and other safety devices.

that in any given instance the safety of those whose lives are threatened by criminals is the paramount concern.

Although bank robbery is against the law, for example, most people would agree that it is better to let robbers get away with a few thousand dollars than stage shootouts on the bank floor.

No well-trained police officer, for another example, would hesitate to allow a fleeing criminal to escape in a crowd rather than fire shots that might hit innocent bystanders.

As Rowan points out, many airline passengers are alive today because ransoms were paid.

But it is quite another matter to place the actions of the Black September terrorists in the same class as random, unconnected criminal events (even granting a definite monkey - see, monkey-do element in the spread of airline hijacking over the past few years).

The murder of the diplomats in Khartoum was just one episode in an organized and centrally directed, if insane, political campaign against Israel.

The same organization, if not the same men, conceived the kidnapping of Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics, the massacre at the Tel Aviv airport and other assorted airplane hijacking and bombings.

To access to the demands of these terrorists at any time is unavoidably to encourage them to make more demands another time. Thus the decisions made by the authorities in Khartoum and the other capitals involved concerned not only the lives of the three men in immediate peril but the lives and well-being of an unknown number of people in the future.

So far, only Israel and the United States have adopted and stuck by a policy of refusing to play the blackmail game. Lacking a united front of the world's nations, the headline position of these two countries may seem to imply, as Rowan charges, "that a seized ambassador, or anyone else, must become a sacrifice to the cause of not encouraging terrorism."

But the only alternative to this policy is to attempt to do business with the terrorists - which means giving in to them.

If the one attitude smacks of "John Wayne-type machismo," the other has disturbing overtones of Neville Chamberlain-type appeasement.

Richard E. Danielson, editor, author, Boston, Mass.: "We may fairly base our definition of rights on the theory that they were and are privileges, granted to us at one time or another as the result of all kinds of pressures and forces, which - if justified in experience - become embedded for a short time or a long time in our fundamental law as rights"

QUESTION IS, IS IT THAT JUNK JUNK?

The thing about modern art, or most of the stuff that is passed off as art, is that there is simply no way to judge it.

Take the minor tragedy that befell sculptor John Chamberlain in Chicago the other day. Chamberlain is an "abstract expressionist" who fashioned two 300-pound, six-foot-high sculptures out of junk metal - twisted automobile bumpers, crumpled washing machines and the like - all welded together in an abstractly expressionistic manner, or expressionistically abstract manner.

Chamberlain valued the sculptures at a total of $20,000 - and who is to gainsay him?

At any rate, it seems that one Walter Kelly, owner of an art gallery, made the mistake of taking the sculptures outside his warehouse to clean them up for a prospective buyer.

"I had them covered with canvas but the wind blew it off," said Kelly. "Buildings are being renovated in the neighborhood and a lot of junkmen are around hauling things away."

Junkmen. Junk sculpture. You've guessed the ending. Even the offer of $1,000 reward failed to turn up the missing works of art.

The moral: Either, (a) it's too bad we don't have more esthetically sensitive junkmen in this country or, (b) sculpture ought to bear characteristics which even to the untutored eye set it apart from the general run of inventory one finds in a typical junkyard.

Which suggests one test of modern art. If a collision between an automobile and a brick wall produces a result indistinguishable from some of the things enshrined in our museums, then either, (a) auto crashes are a great art form or, (b) junk sculpture is junk.

Chimpanzees have been known to throw paint around and come up with abstract canvases that alleged experts could not tell were not made by human hands. So far, however, no chimp has duplicated anything like Leonardo's Mona Lisa.

Nobody is more devoid of human kindness than a bartender who won't extend credit.

PAY HEED TO RUSSIAN SUPPRESSION

Freedom has not died in Russia, but those who would assert any one of their rights to Freedom risk everything, including their very lives, to do so. Many in the U. S. and elsewhere in the non-communist world have imagined that "detente" with Soviet Russia would mean "mellowing" by the communists, both in their dealings with the world outside the Iron Curtain and with the enslaved majority inside.

Free citizens of our nation should be thankful that the communists have not yet succeeded in destroying Freedom here. Freedom enthusiasts need to alert family, friends and neighbors to the constructive good that can be accomplished by activating themselves in Freedom's crusades, large and small.

In Soviet Russia it is the all-powerful, one-party state which suppresses any expression of Freedom or individual rights. In our own land it is the blind mistaken who would do the Reds' work and silence Freedom's voices. Hundreds of prominent Soviet citizens have been sent to insane asylums, to labor camps or to exile in Siberia in recent months for openly resisting this communist oppression inside Russia. Only a very few have remained out of jail, simply because of their great prestige internationally. The Red rulers will soon cease biding their time and do away with this resistance just as they have in the past.

Seasoned campaigners for Truth and Freedom have long urged that concerned citizens activate themselves and others to preserve Republic USA and our profit-motive system, so that we, too, do not fall into the terrible trap which has enslaved so many. HLH

Minority on March? Chavez Unites With Black Unionists' Coalition against National Labor Chiefs

BAL HARBOUR, Fla.-- Out front at labor's massive convention it was all cheers, emotion and standing ovations for blacks and Chicanos the mayor of Los Angeles, Thomas Bradley, was whooped almost as loudly as the roars which greeted labor's 1976 presidential slate-- Sens. Jackson and Ted Kennedy (or vice versa).

But behind the scenes of the AFL-CIO conclave a long and bitter showdown between a Coalition of Black Trade Unionists and Chicano leader Cesar Chavez, on one hand, and labor traditionalism, mostly white leaders, was being "strategized" by militant minority unionists.

And it isn't all over the issues of the power and the glory. The issues are who gets the jobs in the field, in construction and in the factories-- and who gets onto command positions in labor's executive suites.

This Chavez Coalition of Black Trade Unionists, which sounded mighty tough here, is "no sometime thing," as song goes in "Porgy and Bess."

They insisted on more political consultation with them on nomination and endorsement of candidates. They claimed the black vote was the biggest proportionately Hall. It's operating out of five in the basic cities, says its steering committee leader, the scorched AFL-CIO's Municipal Employees' National secretary-treasurer, William Lucy, one of labor's highest national officials.

These cities are New York, Chicago, Detroit, Baltimore and Philadelphia.

And the Chavez Coalition prime target is the AFL-CIO's Building and Construction Trades Dept., made up of 17 countrywide craft unions. The blacks want big chunks of the job action. The riposte to them comes from the Plumbers and International Union general president Marty Ward.

"I think you should keep in mind that in this period of general unemployment the construction industry jobless figures run invariably two, three and four times the general rate," Ward told me.

"It is not a question of these people being minorities. There simply is no work under present conditions for even the most vet. ran journeyman. We lines.

are reluctant to have anybody paying union dues or admission fees when we know we can't offer them work.

"There are particularly difficult areas in Chicago and St. Louis where our people are running 14 to 20 per cent unemployed. It's heavy throughout the nation averaging out 14 to 15 per cent. Those of us who are in a minority appears headed for position to see the situation most reluctant to encourage any craftsmen when we know there is no opportunity for their employment."

But the black militants don't agree. They want the construction unions' rosters opened.

Fact is at their caucus here they sounded tougher than any band of officials or delegates have in a long time. They disagreed with the convention's official position of all-out war aid to Israel and rather called for the end of arms shipping to both sides, the Arabs by the Soviets and the Israelis by the U.S.

They called this "saber-rattling" and wanted it ended. They told the national AFL-CIO to get off its Cesar Chavez, on one hand, backside-- but used less and labor traditionalism, print language.

They demanded a sweeping unionization drive across the South, as well as among the nation's 9 million municipal workers and three million teachers.

They spoke strongly of campaigns to unionize hundreds of thousands of black workers. They attacked George Meany's leadership as well as the activities of such black labor activists as Bayard Rustin of the A. Philip Randolph Institute.

They insisted on more political consultation with them on nomination and endorsement of candidates. They claimed the black vote was the biggest proportionately Hall. It's operating out of five in the basic cities, says its steering committee leader, the scorched AFL-CIO's Municipal Employees' National secretary-treasurer, William Lucy, one of labor's highest national officials.

most important they appear to have the support of powerful unions outside the AFL-CIO, such as Leonard Woodcock's Auto Workers and Arnold Miller's coal-diggers.

It could be just a saber dance instead of meaningful saber-rattling. But here behind the scenes the black-Chicano militant minority within a cent. Those of us who are in a minority appears headed for open war.

BUSY PROSPECT BEST

Once you list your home with a Realtor, it's up to him to find a buyer fast. Normally, he'll arrange appointments to view the home which are convenient to both parties. That's always, nice.

Sometimes, however, prospects are on tight schedules, requiring your Realtor to make last-minute appointments. Don't get annoyed. I'd like to have a dollar for every sale consummated on a last-minute appointment. Believe me, these are the best ones. Why?

Often, prospects who are transferring into your area, are on short househunting visits. They don't have the luxury of time on their side. And they want and need a house now - not in a year. The busy prospect is also more apt to make an immediate offer to buy than one who has all the time in the world. So, if you really want to sell your house in a hurry, treat the last-minute appointment as an opportunity - not an inconvenience.

Reading clinic to be held on SeMo U. campus

CAPE GIRARDEAU-- A reading workshop, co-sponsored by the department of education and psychology at Southeast Missouri State University, Southeast Missouri Department of Reading Teachers and Southeast Missouri Council of International Reading Association will be conducted Wednesday in Memorial Hall at Southeast Missouri State University.

The workshop will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. by Mrs. Shirley Warrick of Memphis, Tenn., a member of the staff of The Commercial Appeal's Newspaper in the Classroom.

She will demonstrate how the newspaper can become a teaching tool as well as a supplemental textbook. Mrs. Warrick recently completed a teacher guide for the NIC program for kindergarten teachers called "Open a New Window".

Eugene D. Rutland, director of educational services for The Commercial Appeal, will be luncheon speaker. His topic will be "You Don't Read Either".

Public and private school teachers, parents and school board members are invited to attend. There is no fee for the workshop, and luncheon tickets may be secured from Dr. Willard Morgan, director of special services at Southeast Missouri State University.

Food catches fire in oven

Firemen were called at 5:05 p.m. Monday to the W. E. Hennington home, 101 Smith St., when food in an oven caught fire.

There was no damage, according to fire department reports.

At 7:05 p.m. Monday, a passing car knocked over a highway 114 about one-half mile west of the city limits, touching off a grassfire. Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze.

Slaughter fined

CHARLESTON -- Richard Slaughter, 21, of Charleston, arrested Monday for driving while intoxicated, was fined $107 this morning in city court.

Victoria Louise Shelby of Charleston paid a $15 fine on a speeding charge.

Newsman fight fines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to interfere with contempt of court fines assessed against two newsmen for reporting on a public hearing.

Over the objection of Justice William O. Douglas the court refused to hear an appeal from two Baton Rouge, La., newsmen. They claimed a federal district court order against reporting on the 1971 hearing was an obvious violation of First Amendment freedoms. They reported despite the order and were each fined $300.

The issue placed before the high court was not whether the anti-reporting ban was illegal, but rather whether it was so obviously illegal that the two newsmen could safely disobey it.

The U.S. Circuit Court at New Orleans struck down the ban as unconstitutional, but

Immediate relief sought for flood damaged counties

WASHINGTON (AP) — Missouri's two U.S. senators and four of its congressmen have asked President Nixon to speed disaster relief in 38 counties hit by recent floods.

Their telegram to the President also asked for an emergency allotment of propane gas for crop drying.

Joining Sen. Stuart Symington and Sen. Thomas Eagleton in the plea were Rep. William Randall, Rep. Jerry Litton, Rep. Richard Ichord and Rep. William Hungate. All are Democrats.

The telegram cited figures from the Army Engineers which estimated 351,000 acres were flooded in late September and early October. This included 275,000 acres of cropland, and the crop damage along the Missouri, Grand and Osage rivers was estimated by the engineers at $58.76 million.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond has designated 38 counties in central and northern Missouri as flood disaster areas under Missouri law. The Missouri members of Congress asked that federal disaster relief be extended to the flood victims, particularly low-interest loans to home owners, businessmen and farmers.

They also noted that much of the damage was in the Pattonsburg and Smithville areas, where flood control projects have been authorized but little money has been appropriated.

said the newsmen, Larry Dickinson of the Baton Rouge StateTimes and Gibbs Adams of the Baton Rouge Morning Advocate, should have appealed it before reporting on the hearing. U.S. District Court Judge E. Gordon West's finding that the two were in contempt was upheld.

If the decision is allowed to stand, argued lawyers for the reporters, "it would arm courts with the power to authorize patently impermissible prior restraints on the exercise of First Amendment rights through the use of the 'contempt' power and, thus, allow them to accomplish indirectly what the Constitution flatly prohibits them from doing directly."

The 1971 hearing dealt with allegations by black civil rights worker Frank Stewart that state charges against him were politically motivated and aimed at abridging his First Amendment rights. He was indicted in 1970 for allegedly conspiring to murder the mayor of Baton Rouge.

In defending the power court decision, the Justice Department contended that it was not unreasonable for West to conclude that "newspaper accounts of the hearing might cause, at the time of publication itself, irreversible prejudice to the rights to the accused ... to have an impartial jury trial."

The reporters' lawyers countered that there was never any demonstration — only a theoretical assumption — that anyone's constitutional right to a fair trial would be harmed.

"If the heavy burden which must be borne by the government to support any prior restraint can be met merely by the assertion of the possibility of a conflict ... between constitutional rights, then freedom of the press as we know it would be held hostage to the fertile imagination of judges," they continued.

In a friend-of-the-court brief, the American Newspaper Publishers Association argued that it was not necessary to give reporters any special treatment in a finding that West's order was patently invalid.

No gag order was placed on spectators at the hearing, the brief said, which "dramatically illustrates the patent invalidity ..."

Ann Landers

Couple should not entertain married man and mistress

Dear Ann Landers: My 18-year-old son is unusually bright. He's in his third year at engineering school. When he came home for summer vacation I was delighted at the thought of having young people around the house again. After a few weeks it dawned on me that one girl (whom he had been dating frequently) literally moved in with us.

Last week I got up at 3:00 a.m. for a drink of water and found them lying on the couch together looking at TV. A few days later when I was fixing breakfast, she popped out of our daughter's empty bedroom, cheerful and unembarrassed. I asked, "Did you sleep here last night?" She replied, "Yes, but my mother doesn't mind so long as she knows where I am."

This morning when I returned from shopping I found her seated at the kitchen table, hair in curlers, removing her nail polish and making herself very much at home. That scene was too much. With an undisguised edge to my voice, I suggested that she "move the manicure paraphernalia elsewhere."

She promptly informed my son that I had been rude to her and he let me have it with both barrels. I am now in the doghouse and find myself mysteriously on the defensive. What's your diagnosis, Dr. Landers?--- Zapped In Scarsdale

Dear Z.: A physical deficiency, dear. No guts. You should have told the young lady when she "popped out" of your daughter's room that she was not at liberty to spend the night in your home because even though HER mother didn't mind, you did.

The only way you can regain control of this bizarre situation is to have a long talk with your son, outline the house rules and insist that he abide by them.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband owns a small business which is just getting off the ground. Last night I was informed that he had invited one of his best customers to our home for dinner Friday. I enjoy entertaining and it is important that I be hospitable to the people my husband does business with. In this instance, however, I was not very pleased and I let him know it. The man he had invited told my husband that he would be bringing his girl friend, not his wife. I am not especially fond of the man's wife, but the fact remains that my husband is asking me to entertain a married man and his mistress. I believe it is improper and it also shows a lack of respect for me.

Am I old-fashioned, as my husband insists? Where do you see me in this picture, Ann?--- L. H.

Dear L. H.: Behind the eight-ball, dearie. When you entertain a married man and his mistress you are an accessory. Hospitality signifies approval. Your husband should take them to a restaurant and leave you out of it.

Dear Ann Landers: In your column, which I enjoy in the Memphis Commercial Appeal, a provocative question from one of your female readers caught my eye. I think I have an answer for her that was better than yours.

The reader asked, "Do Scotsmen wear anything under their kilts?" According to my grandmother, they do-- ever since Queen Victoria reviewed the troops on a windy day.

How do you like that one?--- Old-Timer

Dear O. T.: I love it! Thanks for my laugh for the day.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism-- Hope And Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

The basis of the diet is chemical food action and was devised by a famous Colorado physician especially for the U.S. Ski Team. Normal energy is maintained (very important!) while reducing. You keep "full" -- no starvation -- because the diet is designed that way. It's a diet that is easy to follow whether you work, travel or stay at home. (Not the grapefruit diet!)

This is, honestly, a fantastically successful diet. If it weren't, the U.S. Women's Ski Team wouldn't be permitted to use it! Right? So, give yourself the same break the U.S. Ski Team gets. Lose weight the scientific, proven way. Even if you've tried all the other diets, you owe it to yourself to try the U.S. Women's Ski Team Diet. That is, if you really do want to lose 20 pounds in two weeks. Order today. Tear this out as a reminder.

Baseball greats to visit Sikeston

St. Louis Cardinals baseball greats Stan Musial and Red Schoendienst will be among a growing list of well-known hunters who will attend the first annual fundraising banquet of the Swampast Missouri Chapter of Ducks Unlimited at 6 p.m. on Oct. 29 at the Sikeston Ramada Inn.

The closest of friends for more than three decades, Musial and Schoendienst roomed together on the road for 14 years while active players. Musial now is a Cardinal vice-president and Schoendienst is the team's manager.

Farm boy Schoendienst still chuckles when he tells of taking city slicker Musial on his first quail hunt and Stan showed up in a sports coat and two-toned sports shoes.

Since that day many years ago, the pair have spent many hours together afield in pursuit of their favorite hobby of hunting. Both have hunted in Southeast Missouri and are nearly as well known as outdoor sportsmen as they are for their baseball accomplishments.

Accompanying Musial and Schoendienst to the banquet will be Jack Garagnani, a well-known sportsman and son of Stan and Biggie's Restaurant co-founder Biggie Garagnani.

Banquet tickets are available only in advance from Dub Crutcher and Gordon Hart in Stoddard County, Bill Dillon, Dr. C. F. Eisenbach and Alan Blanton in Sikeston, John Sherrard and Sam Smith in Poplar Bluff, Larry Brewer in Dunklin County, Sam Pikey and Buck Hunter in New Madrid, Bill Glass and Jim Ponder in Mississippi County, Bill Masterson, Cape Girardeau, and Lloyd Moore, Gordonville.

Ducks Unlimited is a non-profit waterfowl conservation organization comprised largely of hunters. The group has restored more than 2,000,000 acres of prime nesting habitat in Canada over the past 36 years by building water control structures on leased lands.

About 80 per cent of the ducks hatched annually on the North American continent are hatched on the Canadian prairies, where U. S. duck stamp habitat restoration funds cannot be spent.

BILLIE JEAN HONORED

NEW YORK (AP) — Tennis star Mrs. Billie Jean King has been named the winner of the Society for Visual Care "Eyes Right" award. The 29-year-old Mrs. King was wearing corrective lenses in July when she won her third Wimbledon title.

Previous "Eyes Right" award winners have been Arnold Palmer and Tommy Aaron, winner of the 1973 Masters golf tournament.

MVP

David "Buddy" Matlock, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Matlock of rural Lilbourn, walked off with the most valuable player awards at the Parma fall baseball banquet recently. The hard-hitting shortstop was a four year varsity regular for the Parma Little League, accumulating a .479 average with 27 homers.

10-player swap

ANAHEIM (AP) — Harry Dalton's two-year search for a catcher has ended with the California Angels sending pitcher Clyde Wright to Milwaukee for Ellie Rodriguez, key figures in a 10-player swap between the American League teams.

"We had to have a catcher and Rodriguez is a good one," the California general manager said Monday when he announced the trade.

"We have given up some age for younger players," said Dalton, who sent relief pitcher Steve Barber, 34, outfielder Ken Berry, 32, and catcher Art Kusnyer, 27, packing along with Wright, 30, and a player to be named later.

Wright had an 11-19 record last season and a 3.68 earned run average. He won 56 games over the three previous seasons.

Besides Rodriguez, 27, who batted .269 this year after leading the Brewers at .285 in 1972, the Angels receive outfielders Ollie Brown, 29, and Joe Lahoud, 26, and pitchers Skip Lockwood, 27, and Gary Ryerson, 25.

In addition to his abilities with the bat, Rodriguez is considered a strong defensive catcher. Dalton has said Jeff Torborg, last year's regular, has slipped in that department.

Dalton said the trade "should help our building process. Lockwood can fill either a starting or relief roll and Brown and Lahoud will be given a chance in the outfield."

Lockwood was 5-12 for the Brewers, pitching half of the time in relief. Ryerson was 11-3 with a 2.09 ERA for the Brewers' Evansville, Ind.,

farm team.

Brown batted .280 with seven homers and 32 runs batted in in 97 games. Lahoud saw limited action, batting .204.

Barber pitched in 50 games for the Angels, mostly in relief, and had a 3-2 record. Kusnyer batted .125 in 41 games.

Berry hit .284 last year. Rivers, 24, batted .349 for the Angels in September after a spectacular summer at Salt Lake.

Homecoming games top prep play

CHARLESTON--- The Blue Jays will be celebrating their homecoming Friday night against neighboring East Prairie and will be looking for their seventh straight victory of the season without a defeat. Coach Joe Black's squad will be trying to keep their shutout record intact also at seven straight. The Blue Jays will have J.

J. Black ready to be turned loose on the Eagles of coach Ed Nichols defensive alignment. The Eagles will be relying on the strong left arm of senior Steve Husk. East Prairie will be taking a 2-4 record in to the contest.

JACKSON--- Coach Paul Webber will be taking a 4-2 record into their battle with Festus Friday night. All-state halfback Loren Sides will be leading the Indian attack. The Indians also have a double barreled attack with quarterback Mark Jones running and passing the ball.

DEXTER--- After a big win over Sikeston last week the Bearcats will be looking to knocking of their neighbor to the west, the Poplar Bluff Mules. The Bearcats moved the ball with ease against the tough Bulldog defense but will run up against a moving offense of the Mules of coach Tom Telle. Poplar Bluff is coming into the game with a major upset last week of the vaunted Cape Central Tigers. Dexter put together a fine running attack led by halfback Stan Burnett and Mike Cooksey. The Bearcats have one of the finest passing combination in the area with quarterback Don Backfish and end Greg Miller.

HAYTI--- The Indians of Jerry Cecil will have their hands full when they take on the Ilmo-Scott City Rams here Friday night. ISC has won 16 straight. The Indians have a breakout runner in halfback Eddie Martin which the Rams will have to contend with throughout the game. Randy Bohn is the leading scorer on the Ram squad with 56 points. Rich Baker has 26 points on the year and is another fine back for coach Bill Wilthong. Hayti is 4-2 for the year.

PORTAGEVILLE--- This great rivalry goes back a few years and no one can really tell how the game will come out as the favorite often gets the worse end of things on the score board. Caruthersville carries a 2-3 slate into the contest and the Bulldogs sport a 4-2 record. Billy Gipson is the leading touchdown maker for coach Jim McKay's crew and John Townsend leads the Tigers. The Tigers are 2-2 in the southern division and Portageville is 3-1.

PERRYVILLE--- The Kennett Indians take a 1-5 record overall and 0-4 northern division record to the Pirates' cove Friday night, while the Pirates are 3-2 overall and 1-2 in conference play. Neither team has put together much offensively thus far this season but are stingy with their opponents as far as scoring is concerned. Roger Shrimp is the big man for Perryville offensively and Kennett has a host of running backs to choose from.

GIDEON--- South Pemiscot brings a 2-3 record here Friday night for their battle with Bootheel conference foe Gideon. South Pemiscot is 1-2 in the conference. Gideon is 0-4 for the year.

RECTOR, Ark.--- Bootheel conference runnerup, Doniphan will travel here Friday night for an interstate football battle. The Dons are 4-1 for the year.

MALDEN--- The Greenwave and Chaffee Red Devils will have a good battle here Friday night. Neither team has won a game in six starts this year.

Pacific league possible

NEW YORK (AP) — It is October 1984. The opening game of the World Series matches the Peking Reds and the New York Yankees.

Preposterous? Not at all, says Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Kuhn says he expects more major league expansion in the next few years, and he'd like to see Japanese teams in the American majors right now.

"It would certainly be possible to have a Pacific League, with American teams from the West Coast and Honolulu, Japanese teams like Tokyo and Osaka and perhaps Taiwan and Manila.

"And, can Peking be far behind?" asked the commissioner in an interview Monday. His remark was half in jest and half serious.

With improved relations between the West and Mainland China and with air travel speeds increasing all the time, there is no reason why athletic teams from the Orient could not compete regularly with Western Hemisphere teams.

Kuhn said baseball is on the verge of expansion—perhaps not immediately, but not before too long. He mentioned such cities as Toronto, Seattle, New Orleans and Mexico City as prime candidates.

"We'd like to be playing in Mexico City and Toronto right now," Kuhn said. "There is no reason why not."

Travel is virtually no problem. The flying time from Seattle to Tokyo is less than six hours. West Coast major league teams already are flying more than five hours to get to the East Coast.

Japanese baseball is very well developed and well supported. A number of American ex-major leaguers are playing for Japanese teams.

As far as is known, the sport has not been introduced in Mainland China, but Taiwan has an extensive program, and the Taiwan entry in the Little League World Series has won two straight World Titles.

Kuhn sees the possibility of three major leagues, the Pacific League plus two others. He also says realignment of the leagues could lead to divisional playoffs involving seven games instead of five.

Malden winless

By DIANNE EZZELL

MALDEN — Coach Jerry Cecil's Hayti Indians romped to a 30-6 victory over the Malden Green Wave Friday night. The game marked the fourth victory for Hayti and their third league victory and Malden's sixth straight loss.

Malden roared away with the opening kick-off when they drove 80 yards in five plays with quarterback John Welch gaining much of the yardage on a 60 yard run. The attempt for the two point conversion was unsuccessful but Malden had an early 6-0 lead.

Hayti then took over and dominated the rest of the first half. The Indians put together a 75 yard drive with Jim Morgan going across on a one yard run. Eddie Martin carried the ball over for the two point conversion.

Leading 8-6 going into the second quarter, Hayti got their offense in high gear scoring three touchdowns in that period. Mark Cartee scored the first touchdown of the quarter on a 13 yard pass. Morgan scored his eighth point of the game with two point conversion. David Humes scored later in the period on an eight pass with Morgan scoring his tenth point of the night on the extra point run. Danny White finished the Indians scoring when he carried the ball across from the two yard line. The touchdown had been set up by an intercepted pass by Cartee and a 50 yard return.

The second half saw the ball change hands several times with neither team being able to mount an attack. The teams were unable to cross their opponents 20 yard lines.

The leading rusher for the game was Morgan of Hayti who carried the ball 13 times for 124 yards. Eddie Martin of Hayti in 22 attempts picked up 80 yards and John Welch of Malden picked up 64 yards in 6 runs.

original Watergate prosecution force will pick up where Mr. Cox left off," Richardson said. "... The problem is one of public acceptance and public confidence..."

Richardson said those were the reasons he favored appointment of a special prosecutor in the first place.

Asked if Petersen or someone else would have a better chance than Cox of getting the tapes, Richardson said: "Possibly."

Richardson praised Cox, and at the same time restated his own support for the administration he had served, emphasizing Nixon's foreign policy achievements.

At a news conference that lasted for nearly an hour, Richardson said he felt Cox had tried to perform fairly as special prosecutor. "I do not believe that Mr. Cox was out to get Mr. Nixon," Richardson said.

He also said Nixon had every right to act as he did in ousting Cox — even though Richardson had promised the special prosecutor would be free to conduct an independent investigation.

Richardson said a President has the authority to revise at any time the terms on which any official was appointed to his administration. He said if the official cannot accept the new terms, "then he ought to get out."

And that is what Richardson did.

He described a week of negotiations on the White House plan for compromise in the tapes dispute.

Richardson said he had agreed with the proposal that a written record, authenticated by a Democratic senator, be offered by the White House. But he said he had not accepted the White House proviso that Cox be barred from pursuing with court action other tapes and documents in the case.

He said the negotiations began eight days ago, and that there was discussion at the White House of the firing of Cox early last week. Richardson said he found that totally unacceptable.

Richardson said the proposal he presented to Cox was that the White House tapes be summarized in "a verbatim record leaving out irrelevancies," a record that would be written in the third person.

Eagleton seeks to end fertilizer raid

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton (D-Mo.) today introduced legislation to end foreign raiding of the United States fertilizer supply and give the American farmer a fair shake in competitive bidding against foreign buyers.

Eagleton said his amendment to the Economic Stabilization Act would "require the Cost of Living Council to subject exports of fertilizer to the same or equivalent price controls that apply to domestic sales of those commodities."

Current Phase IV controls put a ceiling on the price American farmers may pay for fertilizer, but do not control the foreign price.

As a result, fertilizer exports have increased 30 per cent, threatening, Eagleton said, a potentially calamitous shortage of fertilizer in this country.

"Unless immediate steps are taken to deal with the problem," he said, "our whole farm program could be undermined and with it hopes for lower food costs."

at noon that he would refer impeachment resolutions to the Judiciary Committee. He cautioned against hasty or reckless action.

Albert, who is currently next in line to succeed the President if Nixon is removed from office, also called for quick action on the nomination of Rep. Gerald R. Ford to fill the vacant office of vice president.

Ford said he still supports the President and doesn't believe the Cox firing warrants impeachment.

Waldie, a member of the Judiciary Committee, introduced his resolution into a hushed House chamber, with about half the Democrats and a fourth of the Republicans present.

Waldie called the President's actions "an unmistakable obstruction of justice."

There was no applause or other acknowledgement after he spoke.

Other impeachment resolutions then began to be introduced.

Among them was one from a black member from Maryland, Parren J. Mitchell, who said "there comes a time in every man's life when he must face up to his own integrity ... I stand before you agonized. I do not wish to take this quantum step but my heart and soul demands that this be taken."

Mitchell said Nixon had "placed himself above the law of the land and has treated the country with contempt."

Albert said he is confident the committee will begin its inquiry without delay and added: "For the Congress to act in a reckless or hasty manner would further engender disunity."
